ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

This study was undertaken as a direct service to the schools of the State of Iowa through the suggestion of Professor Ernest Horn, to whom I owe the greatest debt of gratitude for continuous encouragement and helpful criticism.

I wish to thank the superintendents, teachers and pupils who gave so freely of their time and effort in securing the spellings and also the Dean of the Graduate College and the Director of the Extension Division who financed from their budgets the collection and scoring of the data.

Acknowledgments are also made to Dean Russell, Associate Professor Lewis, and Dr. Harry A. Greene for their sympathetic counsel and assistance throughout the progress of the study.

INTRODUCTION

The Iowa Spelling Scales have been extensively used. The relatively large number of words included in them and their freedom from excessive statistical manipulation have rightly commended them to practical workers. They have, however, been out of print for some time. Moreover, even those who are fortunate enough to possess the scales in their original form no doubt realize that they are capable of a more useful presentation.

Accordingly this monograph is offered for those who desire a complete representation of the scale in permanent form. The percents of correct spellings in each grade are given for each of the nearly 3,000 words of the scale. Nowhere else has such a detailed showing of the difficulty of the spelling of words been made.

An account is also given of the derivation of the scale; and this is no inconsiderable contribution. The reader will no doubt be impressed by the author's scientific attitude and by his unwillingness to compromise with his ideals of accuracy through adopting all-too-prevalent devices for smoothing out difficulties and then pretending that such difficulties do not exist.

We are glad to observe the position which Doctor Ashbaugh takes on the question of the degree of difficulty of the words which constitute the best testing material. In substance he says that the nearer they are to 50 percent accuracy for the grade in question the better. There has been a strong tendency among users of spelling tests to select words which were much too easy. This tendency has been fostered partly by the fact that the Ayres Scale lists for each grade only the words spelled by 50 percent or more of the children, and partly by the naive desire to see larger figures. Somehow one thinks more highly of a class average of 87 than of one of 46, although the latter may indicate a better performance.

The publication of the Iowa Spelling Scales in this form will place at the disposal of school people a far larger number of evaluated words than have hitherto been generally available. This richness of material will greatly enhance the usefulness of the scale. Duplicate lists can easily be made, and a prolonged program of testing can be carried on without the necessity of making allowance for practice effects. Moreover, the fact that the words of the scale are selected on the basis of frequency of use in correspondence renders the material particularly appropriate for teaching and drill purposes. In fact as a spelling book this monograph has high value. The appropriateness of the words is assured because of their frequent use in correspondence—that is, in the only situation where spelling ability is sure to be required—while the known difficulty of the words permits intelligent grading and distinctions in teaching emphasis.

INTRODUCTION

FIELDS OF EXPERIMENTAL PEDAGOGY

The last two decades have witnessed a large amount of work in the field of experimental pedagogy. This has principally followed three general lines, namely, (1) the selection of subject matter, (2) the determination of efficient methods of teaching or learning, and (3) the formulation of more or less objective measures for checking the results.

The Committee on Economy of Time of the National Education Association through its three reports (1) has done a large amount of work in the selection of subject matter. These reports have challenged the attention of superintendents and the recommendations have been written into numerous courses of study. State Teachers' Associations have taken up the work; their committees have attacked the problem and in many cases have added something to this re-direction of education.

The determination of efficient methods of teaching and learning has appealed to psychologists and teachers. In laboratories and experimental schools much time and effort has been spent in gathering bit by bit the evidence for the different subjects. The experimental evidence in reading, writing, spelling, arithmetic, drawing, and music, and such conclusions as are warranted thereby, have been collected from the various schools and are presented by another committee in the Eighteenth Yearbook. (2) Further consideration will not be given to this field since it is not pertinent to the research in this monograph.

The effort in the third line has brought forth the large number of scales and tests now available. The measurement of progress requires an accurate means of measuring initial status. The comparison of one class with another, or of one school system with another, especially when the testing must be done by different persons, also requires a measuring instrument little influenced by different personalities. One of the goals of the makers of standardized tests and scales has been to obtain an objective measuring instrument as little disturbed as possible by the individual using it.

Perhaps in no subject has there been more experimental work done than in spelling. The subject lends itself to careful study in the fields already designated. The investigations which we wish to review briefly as an introduction to the present study have dealt with two problems: (1) the determination of the vocabulary which should be included in children's spelling, and (2) the derivation of objective scales for the measurement of spelling ability.

STUDIES IN THE DETERMINATION OF VOCABULARY

An examination of the tabulation¹ shown in Table I will reveal the fact that the sources investigated for the selection of spelling vocabularies fall into four general groups; (1) occurrence in reading vocabulary, (2) occurrence in school lessons or classroom work, (3) occurrence in children's compositions, and (4) occurrence in correspondence, usually that of adults.

The first attempt to compare carefully the spelling work of different school systems seems to have been reported by Rice (14) in 1897. In 1895 he sent out a list of fifty words to superintendents in various sections of the United States. Twenty responded sending in the work of more than 16,000 children. The results of the test showed enormous variations, but a two months' tour spent in visiting the various schools convinced him that much of this variation was due to the peculiar manner in which the examinations had been conducted. Also careful pronunciation of several of the words would have given a clue to the spelling.

For these reasons the results of the test were considered unsatisfactory.

A second test involving fifty words in grades four and five, and seventy-five words in grades six, seven, and eight in sentence-dictation form, was given to 13,000 children in eight school systems. In these cases the tests were given under his personal direction and checked by his assistants.

Dr. Rice made no statement in his report regarding the manner of selecting his words except that in the second test "special care was exercised to omit words whose pronunciation would tell the secret" (15) of the correct spelling.

Too much credit can scarcely be given Rice for his pioneer efforts. He initiated the whole measurement movement. Two criticisms, however, may be directed against his work: (1) the words were not selected on the basis of those which children need to learn to spell; and (2) the words were of greatly varying difficulty but were given equal value in scoring. The best evidence in support of the first point is, that of the 77 words used in the second test, 15 do not occur among the 4,000 words of highest frequency in the combined results of the nine most extensive studies of correspondence.² These words are: almanac, ascending, changeable, conscientious, deceive, elegant, fatiguing, hopping, laughter, listened, praise, sensible, slipped, sweeping, whistling. Of these, six do not appear in any form, even the most simple.

Rice recognized that the material for spelling instruction should be selected in such a way as to eliminate unusual words. This is shown by two quotations: "The absurdities incident to the so-called 'natural method' were shown very clearly during one of my visits to a fifth-year class, when the pupils, who had studied the pine, were about to write a composition on the subject. In preparation, the spelling lesson of the day consisted of the following words: exogen, erect, cylindrical, coniferal, irregular, indestructible, pins, resinous, and whorls." (16) His fourth recommendation concerning the course in spelling reads thus: "Precedence should be given to common words, while technical and unusual words should be taught incidentally." (17) However, he gave us no clue as to how the "common words" should be detected.

That Rice's words were of greatly varying difficulty was pointed out by Thorndike (18) who gives the relative frequency of mistakes within the same group of children for each of the forty-nine words taken by Dr. Rice to be equal measures of spelling ability. These forty-nine range from a frequency of forty-two errors to zero. Unfortunately, the table does not give the total number of children attempting the test, so it cannot be placed on a percentage basis.

The reader's attention is called to Table II. This table gives the frequency of error of fifth-grade children on five of Dr. Rice's words as found by Thorndike and the percent of error of fifth-grade children on the same words as shown by the Ayres scale and the present study.

STUDIES IN DERIVATION OF SCALES

The studies intended to evaluate the words to be used in measuring spelling ability have been but two in number previous to this monograph.

Buckingham. (19) In 1913, Buckingham presented the educational world with the first spelling scale. He did preliminary testing with a list of 270 words selected from a much larger list of graded words used by the author in his own school. These had been selected by taking from five of the popular spelling books then in use, a vocabulary of 5,000 words agreed upon by two or more of the books, and then following two principles: (1) "that all of them should be sufficiently common to be in the speaking vocabulary of third-grade children," and (2) "that the spelling difficulty of many of them should be great enough to test the ability of eighth-grade children." (20)

These words were placed in sentences and dictated to grades three to eight. On the basis of the results, a group of 100 words were chosen which in general showed the following characteristics: (1) That the word was not so difficult that it offered no test of third-grade ability. (2) That it showed a steady increase through the following grades but did not reach so high a figure in the highest grades as to prevent its being a test of ability there.

These words were placed in sentences and their difficulty determined by additional testing. By this process he finally arrived at a first and a second preferred list of 25 words each. In order to get a measure of zero ability, an easy list of fifty words was devised. These words were then evaluated with a high degree of precision and were presented for testing purposes in the form of ten-, twenty-five-, and fifty-word scales.

The small number of words limits the usefulness of the scale since the entire list can be quickly learned to 100 percent median accuracy by a class of ordinary ability in the upper grades. The study is of great interest to advanced students of education because of the great refinement of method. It is doubtful, however, if the high degree of refinement adds anything to the value of the scale for practical use by teachers, principals, and superintendents in the field.

Ayres. (21) Probably the most advanced step in spelling measurement was taken by Ayres in 1915 in presenting his Measuring Scale for Ability in Spelling. The 1,000 words in this scale were secured by combining "the results of the several studies so as to secure the most reliable list as a foundation for the work." (22) The placing of the "one thousand commonest words" in the measuring scale assumes that children should be taught and be able to spell these "commonest words" even though they are unable to spell other words. With this assumption we agree.

Two criticisms will be offered concerning the selection of the words:

1. The list is a hybrid since it is made up by combining correspondence frequencies with newspaper and literary frequencies. A comparison of these 1,000 words with the most extensive studies of correspondence reveals 33 words which never occur in these correspondence lists, and 71 others which do not occur in the 3,000 words of greatest frequency. Such words as: arrest, convict, capture, estate, jail, mayor, police, testimony, victim, and witness, occur frequently in newspapers but only a few people ever have any occasion to write them. Why then should they be admitted to our minimal spelling lists?

2. In the selection of these words, root forms and derivatives were counted as one form unless they presented "different spelling difficulties." "Plurals and verb forms presenting no characteristic spelling difficulties beyond those inherent in the singular or infinitive have not been included. (23) Researches by the writer (24) have convinced him that almost without exception derived forms are spelled with less accuracy than root forms, however simple the change involved, and that one cannot select by inspection the forms having slight variation from those having wide variation.

A further criticism must be made on the regularity of the advancement of words in the scale. If all words were learned at the same rate, this regularity might exist. Buckingham found that most of the words which he tried out did not progress regularly and that frequently there was a reversal instead of advance in accuracy from one grade to another.

He says, "In order that this list should be of greatest value it should be so constituted that the increases in percents correct so keep pace with the increase from grade to grade of general spelling ability that a word tends in all grades to maintain the same difficulty relative to all other words in the list to which it belongs. A word which is twentieth in point of difficulty for the third grade ought to deviate as little as possible from the same rank in the other grades. The experience gained in making this investigation leads us to think that most words do not meet this condition, even approximately. The span between the third and the eighth grades is very wide. Accordingly, a very large class of words is impossible for the earlier yet easy for the later grades. Still others are really difficult in the lower grades, but of almost no difficulty in the upper grades." (25)

The following illustration from Buckingham's Preferred Lists show that although he purposely rejected the most irregular words, irregularities still existed.

TABLE III. PERCENT OF ACCURACY WITH WHICH CHILDREN OF SUCCESSIVE GRADES SPELLED EACH OF THE GIVEN WORDS.³

Word	Third	Fourth	Fifth	Sixth	Seventh	Eighth
saucer	11	29	42	58	79	81
raise	21	54	67	84	93	94
already	16	42	43	62	44	77
grease	11	18	37	35	42	57

This table is read as follows: The word "saucer" was spelled by third-grade children with an average accuracy of 11 percent; by fourth-grade children with 29 percent; by fifth-grade children with 42 percent, etc. The percents for the other words in the different grades are read in the same manner.

The first two words show rather consistent increases up to the seventh grade and practically no increase from seventh to eighth. The other two show actual instances of lower accuracy of spelling in one grade than in the previous grade.

The present study shows numerous illustrations of the same phenomenon. Since no word was rejected, lapses appeared, as might have been anticipated from the fact that they occurred in Buckingham's highly selected list. Further, these lapses occur much more frequently in cases of high accuracy (i. e., very easy words) than in those of medium or low.

Because of these findings, a serious question must be raised concerning the amount of smoothing which Ayres must have done to get the perfect regularity from grade to grade which he has upon his scale.

In order to present the situation as it was actually found, it was decided to provide in the present study a separate scale for each of the grades and to include in each scale the whole number of words. Ayres arbitrarily rejected from consideration all words for each grade whose accuracy fell below the middle step. In the present study, no smoothing has been done to show regularity of progress from grade to grade and no words have been rejected from any grade scale regardless of the low percent of accuracy involved.

In the field of measurement, the Ayres scale has had a much wider influence than that by Buckingham. More than eighty-five thousand copies have been distributed in less than four years. Many spelling tests, such as those by Courtis (26), Monroe (27), Fordyce (28), and the writer (29) have been based directly upon it, and probably hundreds of superintendents have adopted it outright as a minimal list for their schools.

SECTION II

THE PROBLEM

Extension work by the writer among the school people of Iowa has brought the following facts clearly to his attention:

1. School people are eager to use the results of scientific research in their school rooms.
2. They have used and appreciated the Ayres Spelling Scale but rightly think that there should be a larger list.
3. For this larger list to be of most worth, the words must be evaluated in some manner.

It was therefore believed that a distinct service would be rendered the schools of the state if a much larger list, scientifically selected, should be evaluated and made available.

At the time the work was begun, the most extensive study of correspondence vocabulary was that of W. N. Anderson. Through the tabulation of 3723 letters of Iowa people, 361,184 running words revealed 3105 different words having such a frequency as to justify, in his judgment, their being taught in school. The Anderson list was an Iowa correspondence list, scientifically selected and containing sufficient words for a much larger list than had ever before been evaluated. Thus the problem became definite—the making of an Iowa Spelling Scale.

SECTION III

METHOD OF GATHERING THE DATA

SELECTION AND ARRANGEMENT OF WORDS

For administrative convenience, only 3,000 words were taken from Anderson's list. The words were listed in order of decreasing frequency and the first 3,000 were arbitrarily chosen. These 3,000 were divided into three sets of 1,000 words each, dividing the frequency as equally as possible. For example, the words and, the and to being in order the words of greatest frequency in Anderson's tabulation, became the first word respectively of each of the three sets. The 4th, 5th and 6th words in order of highest frequency became respectively the second words of each set, and so on. Each set of 1,000 was then divided into ten lists of 100 words each.⁴ In each set, the 1st, 11th, 21st, etc. words became list 1; the 2nd, 12th, 22nd, etc. became list 2; etc. Thus each list included words ranging from very high to lowest frequency of occurrence in Anderson's study. These lists were printed 100 words on a sheet, and the ten lists of a set clipped together.

CO-OPERATION OF THE SCHOOLS OF THE STATE

An invitation to co-operate in a state-wide survey of spelling was sent to the superintendents of schools in all cities and towns of the state, having a population of 1,000 or more. A few smaller places were also invited to participate. More than 150 superintendents promised the co-operation of their teachers in this work. Enough sets of words were sent to each of these superintendents to supply his teachers and printed instructions accompanied each set. A copy of these instructions and list 1 of the set will be found on pages 142 and 143.

These instructions requested ten days work from each class. The children in Grades II-IV were to spell 500 words at the rate of 50 per day and those in Grades V-VIII were to spell 1,000 words at the rate of 100 per day. All spellings were to be made without preliminary study or any teacher help. Children in all grades were thus asked to spell all the different words, although it was surmised that many of them would not be spelled by lower grade children. Preliminary experiments, however, had definitely shown that one could not predict with a high degree of accuracy what words the pupils in any particular grade would misspell.⁵

⁴ The reason for the division of the 3,000 words into sets of 1,000 and lists of 100 will be understood from the instructions to teachers. See page 143.

It was therefore deemed necessary to ask a large number of pupils in each grade (II-VIII inclusive) to attempt to spell each word.

After the 3,000 words were printed and sent out, it was discovered that there were twenty-three words duplicated. Seventeen of these were duplicated in Anderson's original list, while there were six other duplicates due to typographical errors. Thus the list of 3,000 was reduced to 2,977, the number which appears in the completed scales.

The response of the superintendents, teachers and pupils was most gratifying. More than 100 school systems were able to do the work and send in the results. A list of these cities and towns is given on page 144. A conservative estimate indicates that nearly 1,400 teachers and 45,000 children participated in the work.

SECTION IV

METHOD OF HANDLING THE DATA

This very generous response brought in several times as much material as could be used. Hence, a random selection of papers on each list was made from all schools returning data in any grade. This means that on the average, about thirty-five cities and towns are represented by pupils in the determination of the position of each word in each scale. At least 200 spellings were used for each word and the total number of spellings used on the 2977 words in the seven grades was 4,662,200.

All data used were scored or re-checked by the writer or by assistants carefully instructed by him. As has been found by everyone investigating spelling, a number of arbitrary decisions had to be made. Words omitted; words illegibly written; words the request that he should mark each word as follows: H if in his judgment the pupils of fifth grade would spell the word with an accuracy of from 67 percent to 100 percent; M if they would spell with an accuracy of 34 percent to 66 percent; and L if they would spell with an accuracy of 33 percent or less. The results showed that in spite of the great latitude allowed, but 45 percent of the judgments were correct as compared with the results in this monograph; 31 percent of the judgments were one unit wrong and 14 percent were two units wrong. Two units wrong means that words which pupils spelled with an accuracy of 67 percent or higher were judged as 33 percent or lower and vice versa. Even when the nineteen words whose spelling accuracies by the pupils fell within 5 percent of the dividing points, 33-34 and 66-67, were not considered, only 48 percent of the judgments were correct; 40 percent were wrong one unit and 12 percent were wrong two units. In other words, when experienced school men and women attempted to judge the accuracy with which children would spell a set of words, they were more than 10 percent wrong with more than half the cases and more than 33 percent wrong in 12 to 14 percent of the cases.

substituted due to misunderstanding the pronunciation; wrong form of homonyms; changes in number and tense except when the change involved an addition to, but no change in, the form given were all counted wrong. But one form of spelling for a word was considered right except the few words for which Webster's New International Dictionary lists two spellings as equally correct.

SECTION V

ASSUMED DISTRIBUTION OF ABILITY

It was stated in Section II that part of the problem was the evaluation of the words which had been scientifically selected. When the percent of accuracy of spelling has been determined, one form of evaluation has been made, but this is not entirely satisfactory, as will be shown later.

NORMAL PROBABILITY CURVE ASSUMED

Figure 1 presents a typical normal probability or normal frequency curve. The curve has the mass of its area in the central part and but a small part near the ends.

This form of distribution has been found to hold true in such human traits as height, weight, length of arms, etc. The great majority of adult men cluster closely around the mean height or weight of all adult men while a decreasing number divide about equally in varying above and below this mean. Only a few vary widely, but those who do are about equally divided as to the direction of their variation.

Does this normal frequency distribution hold true in mental as well as physical traits?

It is a well recognized fact that people with mediocre ability are much more numerous than the dull or the brilliant, and that the very dull and very brilliant are few indeed. Hence, common observation would suggest that general mental ability is distributed in the same manner as physical traits. Does this hold true, also, of the distribution of special abilities such as spelling, arithmetic, language, etc?

The various scales for measuring special abilities such as the Buckingham and Ayres Spelling, Woody's Arithmetic (30), Green's Organization (31), and Trabue's Language (32), have been developed upon the assumption that special abilities are so distributed. The best proof perhaps that the assumption is valid, is that if the assumption is made the results that follow are in very close agreement with the known facts. For these reasons, it was decided to make the same assumption in the present study.

SOME PROPERTIES OF THE CURVE

The mathematical properties of the normal probability curve have been very carefully and elaborately worked out on two bases, namely, the Probable Error (P. E.) or mean deviation, and the Sigma (σ) or standard deviation.

The Probable Error, as a function of the normal probability curve, is that perpendicular distance from the mean at which, if an ordinate is erected, the surface included between this ordinate, the curve, the mean ordinate, and the base line includes 25 percent of the surface included by the whole curve and the base line.⁶ In ⁶In theory the curve and base never meet, the lines being in asymptote, but for practical purposes they are considered as meeting at some given distance from the mean. It is in this sense that we may speak of the surface included between the curve and the base.

Likewise, Sigma or the standard deviation, as a function of the normal probability curve, is the perpendicular distance to the mean ordinate from the point on the curve where it changes from concave to convex; mn in Figure 2 represents this distance.

Both Probable Error and Sigma, being functions of the normal probability curve, bear constant relationship to the curve regardless of the variability of base and altitude. Through easily accessible tables, the amount of area included by the curve, mean, base, and an ordinate erected at any given Probable Error or Sigma distance, can be found.⁷

Buckingham, in the development of his spelling scale, used Probable Error and arbitrarily broke off the curve (which theoretically forever approaches the base but never meets it) at ± 4.6 P. E. This disregards but about one-tenth of one percent of the total surface on either side of the mean.

Ayres, in making his scale, used Sigma and arbitrarily broke the extremities at $\pm 2.5 \sigma$ which disregards about six-tenths of one percent at each end.

After considerable experimentation, the writer decided to follow Ayres and use the $\pm 2.5 \sigma$ curve for the following reasons:

1. In practical schoolroom work it is doubtful if it is worth while to differentiate spelling differences of less than one percent. To extend the curve beyond $\pm 2.5 \sigma$ which is approximately the same as ± 3.75 P. E., necessitates this finer differentiation.

2. Since 893 words⁸ are common to the Ayres Scale and this study, the use of the same form of distribution would permit comparisons not possible otherwise.

PLACING WORDS IN THE SCALE.

Having assumed the normal probability curve, and having decided upon the measure of variability to use and the limits at which the curve should be arbitrarily broken off, the next problem was to decide on the number of steps into which to divide the base. The spelling accuracies varied in most grades from at or near zero on some words to at or near 100 percent on others. That is, there were some words which children of any grade spelled with perfect or nearly perfect accuracy while there were other words which were missed by all or nearly all the children.

⁸ There are 893 words which appear in both studies which are identical in form while there are 25 others which differ in suffix only. Of these, 10 differ in the suffix "e-d" and 5 in the suffix "s."

In theory the number of steps or divisions into which the base may be divided is infinite, but practical considerations limit the number to but a few. Since our assumption of normal distribution predicates that the number of very good and very poor spellers are few, it is necessary to make finer discriminations between those percentages lying near the extremes of the scale than between those lying near the middle. The larger the number of steps or divisions into which the base is divided, the finer the distinctions drawn all along the scale, but especially is this true near the extremes. As has been stated, however, a finer discrimination than whole percentages can hardly be justified in an instrument designed for practical schoolroom measurement. On the other hand, but few divisions would tend to cover up differences which should be revealed.

Again, after much experimentation it was decided that the division of the base line into twenty-five equal steps, as Ayres did, gave the best results since it permits single whole percentage discrimination of differences near the extremes and does not group together too large percentage differences in the middle.

If there were an equal number of each grade of ability, excellent, good, fair, poor, and very poor; that is, if the frequency surface were a rectangle, then the percentage valuation would be very satisfactory. But we know this is not true and have assumed the distribution to be that of the probability curve instead. Therefore, words which differ by a single percent in the accuracy of spelling do not always represent equal differences in difficulty. Reference to Figure 1 will show quickly that the linear distance between two ordinates so erected as to include between them, the base and the curve, one percent of the whole surface will differ much depending upon whether the ordinates are erected near the median or near the extremes. One of these twenty-five parts into which we have divided the base will underlie approximately nine percent of the surface if located at the median, about four percent if located midway between the median and the extremes and only one percent if located near the extremes. It is this recognition of the type of distribution of ability which makes the percentage evaluation unsatisfactory.

On the basis of the accuracy of the children's spellings, each word was then placed in its proper step or position on the scale. Because it was thought that students of experimental education might care to have the finer distinctions which are not afforded by the step position alone, it was decided to keep the percentage groups within the steps of the scale separate and designate the exact percentage accuracy with which each word was spelled by the children.

If the difficulty of words be defined in terms of differences in position among the steps of the scale, then the words which lie in a single step are of approximately equal difficulty and the words in one step are as much more difficult than those in the previous step as the words in any other step are more difficult than those in the step preceding it. That is, the degree of difficulty between steps is constant throughout the length of the scale.

It will be perceived, of course, that the difficulty of spelling a word is thus defined in terms of the accuracy with which children in a given grade responded to the word under the conditions described in this monograph. It has nothing to do with the inherent difficulties of teaching or learning the word except to the extent that these may be reflected in the accuracy of the spellings of the pupils.

Throughout this monograph, spelling ability is spoken of in terms of efficiency of performance. The only measure of ability which we have for mental traits is in terms of performance. This is common usage and we believe it is perfectly justifiable. We measure ability to read, ability to add, ability to hit a target, ability to lift a weight, etc., in terms of performance. In all these activities, we find by measuring a large number of cases that a few are very good, a few very poor and the majority of all cases occupy an intermediate position. In other words, these various abilities distribute themselves about in the form of the normal probability surface of frequency. It has been the assumption upon which these scales have been built, that spelling ability, ability to do this particular thing under the given conditions, is distributed in this same manner. The scales do not concern themselves with the child's inherent capacity to learn to do, or the difficulties inherent in the words themselves.

SECTION VI

USE OF THE SCALES

These scales lend themselves to at least three uses, namely, (1) measurement of status of spelling ability, (2) measurement of growth in spelling ability, and (3) a minimal spelling list for teaching purposes.

Each word having been placed in the scales on the basis of the accuracy with which children in the respective grade spelled it when presented in ordinary list form, any teacher, principal, or superintendent may use the scale to determine how well his own class or school can spell any group of these words in comparison with the children of Iowa as a whole. In making this comparison, the following things should be remembered.

1. That to secure comparable results, the words should be pronounced in accordance with the original instructions (See page 143) and the words scored according to the criteria stated on page 15.

2. That these spellings were from pupils who had on the average completed approximately one-half of the year's work for the grade. Tests given at the beginning or end of the year's work should be interpreted accordingly.

3. That to secure equally reliable results, a much larger list of words must be used with a small group of pupils than with a large group.

4. That in general, words located near the middle of the scale, those with an accuracy of 35 percent-65 percent, are probably more reliable for measuring purposes than those near the extremes.

Words spelled with 100 percent accuracy furnish no test because all the children have mastered them. Some of them could undoubtedly spell much more difficult words. Likewise, words which are missed by all the children furnish no test since we have no means of knowing how much too difficult they are. Since there are many possibilities of wrong spelling against one possible right form, it is probable that 50 percent represents the maximum point of critical measure of a group. This conforms with the experimental work of Otis. (33)

MEASUREMENT OF STATUS OF ABILITY

In using the scales for measuring class and school status, it should be kept in mind that words of differing percents within a step are of approximately equal difficulty but to equalize even small differences, a random selection of words from all the percentage groups in a step should be made and these words pronounced as an ordinary spelling test without instruction or previous study. If the average of the class is the same as the average for the step or within the limits of the percents listed under one step, the class has a spelling status on these words about the same as the children of like grade in Iowa. If the class average reaches a percent higher than the highest listed under the step, the class is above average; if below the lowest listed under the step, it is below average.

A word of caution is perhaps in place. The teacher in using these scales must remember that the fundamental assumption upon which the scales have been built is that spelling ability distributes itself according to the normal probability surface of frequency. It must not be expected, therefore, that all the children in her class will spell all the words in a given test, even though the words are chosen from a single step on the scale, with the same percent of accuracy. A wide range of variation is to be expected and a very narrow range would be quite unusual. Further, the words in a step have been placed there as of approximate equality on the basis of a large number of spellings and it is not to be expected that, with a small group such as a class, the accuracy of spelling on each of the words will be equal.

MEASUREMENT OF GROWTH OF ABILITY

In measurement of growth, two objects may be distinguished, (1) the measurement of growth or change due to a term or year of school work, and (2) the measurement of growth or change due to the use of a special method, device, or time variation during a greater or less period.

The first measurement will probably be the one of most significance to teachers and superintendents, and gross differences will be of greatest interest. For this reason, the differences may well be considered mainly in terms of step changes.

The second measurement will be of primary interest to special supervisors and students of experimental education. Since these persons are interested in more refined results, they should consider the individual percentage groups within the step. Whole step differences may frequently be larger than the changes brought about by the conditions involved in the experiment.

A MINIMAL SPELLING LIST

This list presents with a high degree of accuracy the words which people use most frequently in written correspondence. For this reason it is highly important that pupils in the elementary school learn to spell these words. By using the words of the scale as the material for regular class instruction, teachers may note class improvement, but they must recognize that as a scale it is becoming less and less valuable as a measuring instrument. However, the writer agrees completely with Ayres when he says, "Probably the scale will have served its greatest usefulness in any locality when the school children have mastered these words so thoroughly that the scale has become quite useless as a measuring instrument." (34)

SECTION VII

LIMITATIONS OF THE SCALES

The scales presented herewith are subject to certain limitations, some of which will be discussed in this section.

NUMBER OF SPELLINGS USED

In general, with a random selection the reliability of results increases as the square root of the number of cases involved. In the following scales, the number of spellings on each word in each grade was 200 or more. This number was selected as being a sufficient number to give a degree of reliability acceptable in this type of measurement.

However, in order to ascertain the range of variability which might be expected on the basis of 200 spellings in comparison with a larger number, 700 spellings were selected at random on a list of 100 words. The accuracy of spelling on each word was checked out per 100 spellings and three combinations of 200 each were compared with the accuracy of 700. The spelling accuracy of the 100 words in the 700 spellings varied from 100 percent for the three easiest words to 11, 15 and 20 percent respectively on the three most difficult words.

Since the words were to be placed in the scales in terms of steps of equal value as stated previously, it was thought that this examination of reliability of placement should be in terms of steps rather than in terms of percent. The total scale was divided arbitrarily into three-step groups on each side of the middle step. Then the three on each side adjacent to the middle step and this middle step were thrown together since there seemed no valid reason for keeping them separate, the percents in each step being symmetrically placed above and below the middle step. When the 100 words were distributed according to this grouping on the basis of accuracies obtained from the 700 spellings of each word, it was found that there were 12 words in the easiest group, 32 in the next, and so on as shown in column four of Table II.

Next the accuracy for each word on the basis of each of the first, second, and third 200 spellings was taken from its accuracy

TABLE IV. AVERAGE DEVIATION OF SPELLING ACCURACY IN TERMS OF SCALE STEP OF RANDOM SAMPLINGS OF 200 SPELLINGS FROM THE ACCURACIES OF 700 SPELLINGS.

Accuracy in Percents on 700 Spellings	Number of Scale Steps Within These Limits	Average Range in Percent Included in One Step	Number of Words in Group	Average Deviation in Scale Step
				First 200	Second 200	Third 200
98-100	3	1.00	12	.42	.42	.42
91-97	3	2.33	32	.55	.60	.63
77-90	3	4.67	20	.49	.69	.41
24-76	7	7.57	33	.38	.27	.34
10-23	3	4.67	3	.50	.07	.93

on the basis of the total 700 and the average difference of deviation of all words within the group was determined. This average deviation in terms of percent was then converted into average deviation in terms of scale step by dividing by the average range in percent included in one step.

From these data it is concluded that since the average variation is less than 0.7 of a step in all cases but one, and is 0.5 of a step or less in more than half the cases, 200 spellings is amply sufficient for the degree of accuracy required in placing the words in a scale of this type.

DISTRIBUTION OF SPELLINGS

It may be considered a limitation on the scales that all spellings used were secured from Iowa school children. The answer to this is two-fold: (1) that the scales were designed primarily for service to the school people of the state of Iowa. From this standpoint this limitation becomes a positive recommendation. (2) On the basis of a state-wide study of spelling, involving 8818 children in Grades III to VIII inclusive, on spelling tests devised from the Ayres scale, the school children of Iowa spell with about the same average accuracy as children in the 86 cities involved in the Ayres study. This is shown by Table V.

TABLE V. COMPARATIVE SPELLING RESULTS: AYRES SCALE AND 27 IOWA CITIES. 20 WORDS, LIST SPELLING.

Grades	Third	Fourth	Fifth	Sixth	Seventh	Eighth
Number of Children	1620	1635	1841	1338	1228	1156
Iowa Average Scores	73	85	74	83	77	86
Ayres Standard	73	88	73	84	73	84

The table is read as follows: 1620 third-grade children spelled the 20 words with an average accuracy of 73 percent and the Ayres standard for these words is also 73 percent; 1635 fourth-grade Iowa children spelled the 20 words with an average accuracy of 85 percent while the Ayres standard on these words is 88 percent. The number of children and the average accuracy for Iowa children and the Ayres standard for the other grades are read in the same manner.

WORDS GIVEN IN LIST FORM

It is recognized that the spelling of words in list form does not give an exact measure of the accuracy with which children will spell words in their ordinary daily work. This condition is perhaps more closely approximated by a timed-dictation test. In neither case, however, can we be certain that the ability displayed is exactly the same as that which will function when the child is writing spontaneously. These scales do present the accuracy with which children did spell these words when presented under the conditions described in the monograph.

WORDS OF VARYING DIFFICULTY PRESENTED IN THE SAME LIST

Making up the list of words on the basis of approximately equal distribution of words of high, median, and low frequency in written correspondence necessarily brought into the same list, words of widely varying difficulty. How far this tends to produce an inaccurate result in the spelling of the common words is not definitely known.

Due to the fact that 23 words were duplicated in the lists sent out, it is possible to make some comparison between the accuracy with which words were spelled when they occurred early in the list, preceded by words which were comparatively easy, and when the same words occurred late in the list, preceded by words of greater difficulty. Thirteen of these 23 words involved this situation of appearing one time rather early in the list and a second time rather late. A comparison of the accuracy with which the children in each of the different grades spelled the word when it occurred early in the list with the accuracy with which it was spelled by children of the same grade when it occurred late in the list, showed two things:

1. That in all grades there was a somewhat higher average accuracy on the words when they occurred early in the list, though some words showed the opposite situation. The median increase in accuracy in the seven grades on words occurring early in the list over the accuracy on the same words when occurring late in the list was but 2 percent. This difference in accuracy was greatest in the third and fourth grades, though a priori judgment had decided that this factor would most affect second-grade children and have less influence thereafter from grade to grade.

2. The average difference of spelling accuracy in these two grades which seemed to be most greatly influenced by this factor was practically identical with the range of percents included in a single step in the portion of the scale in which these words appear.

Since these words were placed in the scales in an intermediate position determined by the average accuracy of spelling in the two positions, it is quite certain that no word is misplaced more than a single step. It is probable that half the words are misplaced less than half a step (that is, not at all in the scale) due to this factor.

NO ZERO POINT ON THE SCALE

These scales in common with the Ayres scale, place the words on the basis of relative difficulty rather than absolute difficulty from a point which would indicate no ability at all. Because of this limitation, it is not possible to state that words appearing in any single step are so many "times as" difficult as words appearing in some other step. It is only possible to state that words in any step are as much more difficult than the words in the step preceding as the words in any other step are more difficult than the words in the step preceding that. In other words, the inter-step difficulty is approximately equal throughout the scale.

From the standpoint of practical usage the lack of an absolute zero-point presents no serious objection. In the measurement of progress, school people are interested in making comparison with norms and with previous status rather than in determining "times as" relationships. For this reason, a zero-point was not considered of sufficient importance to justify the large amount of additional work which would have been necessary to have secured it.

Instructions sent with spelling material to all cooperating teachers.

INSTRUCTIONS TO TEACHERS

This work is a part of a state wide effort to grade a list of most commonly used words. The success of the work will depend upon the accuracy with which you and all other teachers follow these directions.

Please have your pupils spell one list each day; 100 words if you are teaching grades V to VIII and 50 words if you are teaching grades II, III or IV. Pronounce each word distinctly and make sure that each child understands the word. Give a short illustrative sentence in all cases where different words have the same or similar pronunciation. The words are to be given without previous study or drill of any kind. Give plenty of time but no assistance.

Have the work done with pencil, on paper of uniform size, writing two columns on a page but do not write on both sides of the paper. The child should write his name, sex, age, and grade and the name of his school and city at the top of each sheet. Pronounce the words in order numbered and have the pupils number the words as they write them. This is very important.

Impress upon the children that in case of an error, they are to draw a line through the word and write it correctly above or beside the misspelled word. Words in which one letter has been written over another will be counted wrong, as it is almost impossible to know which was the child's final decision on the spelling.

It is recognized that in the lower grades many of these words are quite unfamiliar to the children and that a large proportion of the pupils will not be able to spell most of the words in the list. The only way, however, to find out what words the children can spell and what words they cannot spell is to give them the opportunity to attempt to spell all the words. Keep them just as happy in the effort as possible by telling them that other boys and girls of the same grade are trying to spell the same words in other schools in Iowa. If you are teaching in grade II or III, it will probably be better to pronounce 25 words in the forenoon and 25 in the afternoon than to give all 50 at once.

If your pupils are in grades VI, VII, or VIII, will you please assist in the scoring by having a few of the stronger pupils detailed each day to check the papers of all members of the class. Caution them that they are not to mark the word in any way but only make a cross through the number of the word which is misspelled. Four children can correct the papers for a room in twenty to thirty minutes and you will doubtless have no difficulty in finding some of the pupils who will very gladly do this.

The papers are to be collected each day and tied together. At the end of the ten days, the ten bunches of papers which represent the ten days' spelling of the pupils in your room, are to be sent tied in a single package to your superintendent. He will then forward these papers with all others from your city to the Extension Division. The Extension Division will score the papers from the lower grades and tabulate the spellings from all contributing schools and return the results to your Superintendent.

To the extent that these instructions are carefully followed and your co-operation secured will the results be of value to all the schools of the state. Please give the work your best effort but do not attempt to improve the spelling of the children of your room on these words by assisting them in their spelling in any way.
